Overview

Tagomago is one of the Mediterranean's most exclusive private islands- an intimate and secluded 148-acre hideaway yet only a short boat trip from Ibiza.

Tagomago has a private villa surrounded by clear turquoise waters and home to a historic lighthouse dating back to 1909. The island was originally owned by German royalty and following an extensive renovation in 2014, it now offers the perfect, private, and incredibly beautiful getaway for groups of friends or families to explore.

Guests have use of a private boat with a captain for the duration of their stay making it easy to experience the stunning coastline of Ibiza and spectacular beaches of nearby Formentera. Tagomago is within easy reach of Ibiza’s best beach clubs, restaurants and the concierge can organise exclusive access to the local nightclubs. For guests that wish to take the Ibiza experience one step further, a 33m Mangusta yacht is available for hire (additional charges apply) for private charters on a per day or weekly basis complete with private chef, jet skis and separate tender.

Tagomago’s sprawling 5 en-suite double bedroom villa is located in the centre of the island and has a full-time staff of eight including a private chef, butler, housekeeping and maintenance staff. Designed to the highest standards it boasts panoramic views of Ibiza and the Mediterranean. The villa has several large living and dining spaces, complete with a spectacular 17m saltwater pool, an outdoor jacuzzi and fitness area, a steam room and sauna. The rooftop terrace provides the perfect setting for evening cocktails as the sun sets behind the west coast of Ibiza.
