The Shanti Residence

Intended as a multi-generational family home, The Shanti Residence has been thoughtfully designed by award-winning Balinese architect Popo Danes to embody true tranquility. Its name, Shanti, meaning “peace” in Sanskrit, perfectly captures the villa’s peaceful hilltop setting in the gentle Nusa Dua hills, just thirty minutes from the airport.

Overview

Intended as a multi-generational family home, The Shanti Residence has been thoughtfully designed by award-winning Balinese architect Popo Danes to embody true tranquility. Its name, Shanti, meaning “peace” in Sanskrit, perfectly captures the villa’s peaceful hilltop setting in the gentle Nusa Dua hills, just thirty minutes from the airport.

At the social heart of the estate is the impressive living pavilion. Beneath a vaulted ceiling and a striking chandelier, a grand wooden dining table crafted by Ibu Melati seats fifteen, turning every meal into a memorable occasion. With the villa’s private chef preparing delicious dishes, this space is certain to be a favourite gathering point. Oriental carpets laid over polished black terrazzo floors lead out to a magnificent 16-metre infinity pool, with ocean views framed by treetops.

The seven suites are arranged across three pavilions on either side of the main house. Overlooking lush grounds and the sea beyond, the suites offer privacy and luxury in equal measure. Four of them feature their own plunge pool and relaxation balé, making them ideal for large groups who want time together but also value personal space to retreat to.

An attentive team will ensure each guest feels truly cared for. The Shanti Residence is particularly suited to family reunions and large gatherings, and its dramatic setting makes it a spectacular venue for celebrations.

Although it may be hard to tear yourself away from this retreat, there is plenty to do in southern Bali. Pristine white-sand beaches, including beautiful Geger Beach, are just a few minutes away, while Bali National Golf Resort is close by, ideal for those keen golfers. With a luxury car and driver easily arranged through your concierge (additional charge), exploring the Nusa Dua enclave is easy and enjoyable.
