Overview

The home design of Casa Minstral, approached with research in the historical context, results in a new-classic style with modern tiled floors and tuff stone walls together with vaulted ceilings that lend a rustic and airy feel to the interiors. Elements of classic Apulian residential architecture, such as the exposed stones, are combined with contemporary touches, like bottom to ceiling windows and modern infrastructure and energy-saving systems. Materials include Tuff stone, lime, and wood locally sourced. Trendy yet very comfortable, this is an elegant retreat full of light and welcoming vibes, blending traditional and modern Apulian architecture.
