A nature lovers paradise, enjoy the traditional architecture which blends with its tropical surroundings and close to Bali's cultural centre, Ubud. Complete with along-alang thatched roofs and polished floors and open sided terrace to soak in the tropical climate.

For those who appreciate foliage and fauna then you will love Alamanda's gardens, which are ripe with fragrant Frangipanis, Red Heliconias and the bright-yellow Alamanda after which the villa is named. The colour of the flora bursts against the green foliage of the surrounding tropics and jungle.

Villa Alamanda is a special place; part of a traditional wood-carvers' village where guests can immerse themselves in the routines of daily Balinese life from elaborate Hindu ceremonies to children playing in the street. This traditional village offers a fascinating insight into daily Balinese life including the colourful and hypnotic Hindu ceremonies. While the villa enjoys a remote and quiet setting it is only a short drive to many of Bali's tourist hot spots including the famous Goa Gajah (Elephant Cave), the UNESCO rice fields of Tegallalang, the Tirta Girtu water temple at Tampak Siring, and the Bali Marine and Safari Park.

The main attraction, though, has to be Ubud, Bali's cultural heart, famed for its art, wood carving, jewellery, textiles, antiques, restaurants, markets and cultural performances – including the Kacek dance. Three hundred metres above sea level in the foothills of the central mountain range, Ubud offers a cooler, wetter climate making it perfect for rice farming.
